When you have a question about your library card, waiting at this desk can be hard.

If you’re wondering about all the tall shelves full of true books, stop by this desk and the staff there will help you look.

When you are small you can visit this room where you can put flannel people on the wall.

Come here to sit if in junior high or high school you fit.

Every Monday we bust your after-school boredom blues – come back to the room where you started to get more clues.
